THERE'S STILL TIME TO MAKE FARM SAFETY "REGISTER" WITH YOUR CHILDREN

Power takeoff entanglement, grain elevator entrapment, and chemical and dust explosions – all in a day's play on the farm?

The coordinator of a farm safety day camp being held next week in _____ (community) believes rural parents can do more to ensure that farm accidents don't become a part of their kid's childhood memories. According to _____ (coordinator name) of _____ (home community) one way to start is by having their 8 to 13 year old children attend _____ (organization's) farm safety day camp scheduled for _____, _____, _____ (day of week) (month) (date) at _____, from _____ (location) (start time to finish time). Parents need to act fast, however, as the registration deadline is _____ (date).

The day camp is designed to increase children's awareness of a wide variety of farm hazards, as well as providing them with hands-on, first aid training to help themselves or someone else survive a farm accident should one occur. The Farm Safety Day Camps are made possible, in part, by South Dakota CARES, SDSU Cooperative Extension Service, Avera Rural Health Institute, (see Statewide Sponsor Tys for current sponsor names to include in each press release).

Parents can register their children to participate in the camp by calling _____ (name) at _____ (phone number). A _____ ($ amount) registration fee for the event covers lunch, snacks and a farm safety day camp T-shirt.
